

THE NEW TROPIC

💕 "I'd wait in Miami traffic to see you" and more 305 romance

Plus, Miami Film Festival returns and Miami Beach squares off against spring breakers.

By Zach Schlein

(You can't imagine how relieved we are that) it's Friday!

In the spirit of Valentine's Day, we're keeping things light and breezy today. For those of you who didn't heed our warning in yesterday's newsletter about prepping something nice for that special someone, hopefully this'll give you more time to scramble and pull off a show-stopping display of affection.

OR you could just check out The New Tropic's Instagram and sneakily print out one of those cute V-Day cards we shared yesterday. Procrastinators of Miami take note — we have your back.

With that bit of holiday cross-synergy out of the way, let's take a look at some local headlines...

Sunday

🌟 Sit under the stars with your special someone and enjoy a performance by Spaniard songstress BITA at Fairchild Gardens (Coral Gables)